

Shannon Boffeli

Shannon is a Professional XC and Super-D racer. He began riding and racing mountain bikes in 1992. Shannon has degrees from the University of Iowa and University of Utah. He lives in Salt Lake City, Utah while serving as editor for MTBraceneWS.com and reporting on National Championship level racing and mountain bike racing in the West.

Kevin Day

Kevin has been racing mountain bikes for fifteen years, in which the last six have been as a professional. He received a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from Weber State University and works full-time as a Graphic Designer, in Salt Lake City.

Greg Gibson

Greg is a Semi-Pro XC and Super-D racer. He began riding and racing mountain bikes in 1995. Greg is currently a senior at Union College in Barbourville, Kentucky and covers mountain bike racing in the Southeast region as well as ultra-endurance events.

Sean Sindt

Sean is a Semi-Pro XC racer. He began riding and racing mountain bikes in 1997. Sean graduated from Iowa State University and lives in Austin, Texas. He covers national championship level races and mountain bike racing in the Southwest region

What is MTBraceneWS.com:

MTBraceneWS was founded by professional mountain bikers Shannon Boffeli and Kevin Day in order to provide a completely unique and exciting service by delivering the exhilarating world of mountain bike racing to the public, providing timely race results, unparalleled access to professional racers and fabulous riding locales.

MTBraceneWS is responding to the call of the mountain bike racing community for a new voice to report and discuss issues that interest bike racers throughout the country. MTBraceneWS.com will provide comprehensive coverage of National Championship level races as well as exciting regional competitions. In addition, you can join us for insightful rider interviews, and helpful riding hints from some of the best mountain bike riders in the U.S.

The founders and contributors to MTBraceneWS.com are dedicated to the sport of mountain bike racing and hope to insure its continued success by providing the media coverage it deserves. MTBraceneWS is dedicated to assisting in the resurgence of American mountain bike racing by shining the spotlight on our sport.